2. BACKGROUND

The School Nutrition Programme was implemented in September 1994, after the State of the Nation address by then State President Mandela.

- The NSNP was conceptualized as a shared component of general education and health department, until 2003 when the cabinet decided to transfer the programme to the Department of Education.
- The three focus areas of the NSNP is to provide nutritious meals to schools, facilitating food gardens or other food production initiatives in and around the school and educating learners and the community at large about good nutrition in relation to healthy life style.
- The Programme is expected to target public ordinary schools serving the poorest communities, with particular priority given to farm, rural and informal settlements for school feeding. It is funded through a Conditional Grant with which the province buys goods and services.

The table above indicates the learner allocation per service provider. It should be noted that there will be schools that will be serviced by more than one service provider as they are having a larger number of learners.

8.1: Allocation of Food Handlers

The table below represents the list of the food handlers/helpers at schools, against the number of learners per supplier. A minimum payment of R900.00 per person per month, in line with the food handler to a learner ratio of 1:200; as per the 2014-15 Conditional Grant Framework of the National School Nutrition Programme. (Attached as Annexure "C"). Each supplier is allocated food handlers against the number of learners and budget is additional to learner's budget.
